Requirement for Information Under 37 C.F.R.

A supplemental IDS is filed concurrently with the present response. Three letters that relate to the meetings that were cited in the previous supplemental IDS are submitted for the Examiner's review. Applicant does not recall the specific details of the meetings and therefore represents that these letters comprise all the information that can be readily obtained about any sale activity that occurred prior to the filing date of the application.

The Examiner's attention is drawn to the statement on page 2 of the letter dated April 9, 1992 in which the proprietary nature of the software is mentioned, which is evidence that might indicate that a software level discussion was not held at the meeting with the Turnpike Director.

The Examiner has also requested information about features that are discussed and claimed in the parent application as opposed to the instant application. The use of touch screens and the weather update feature that gets weather updates from a computer information service were both developed after the filing of the parent application and are included in the instant application.
